

THE CROWN'S CHARGE.

Cunningham, the Arrested Conspirator, at the Bow Street Police Court.

Solicitor Poland's Speech—The Charge Against the Prisoner May Be Changed to High Treason—The Examination—A Sensational Diversion—Guarding the Victoria Bridge—Foreign Matters.

London, February 2.—The examination of James G. Cunningham, charged with complicity in causing the recent explosion at the Tower of London, was begun in the Bow Street Police Court this morning. Mr. Poland, solicitor, in opening the case for the Crown, said that the Government intended to prove that the prisoner was an active agent in the conspiracy which culminated in the horrible outrage at the Tower. The solicitor related the facts in regard to Cunningham's movements at Liverpool, from the time of his arrival at Liverpool from America up to the date of his arrest at the Tower a few minutes after the explosion occurred; his traveling under the assumed names of Gilbert and Dalton, and his subsequent movements, and the circumstances connected with his stay at both the above cities. Mr. Poland dwelt particularly on the mysterious disappearance of a peculiar box from the prisoner's lodgings in Scarborough street immediately after Cunningham's arrest. Mr. Poland laid stress upon these facts in order to show that CUNNINGHAM WAS IN LEAGUE WITH OTHERS, who must have been instructed in the line of action to be taken in case of an arrest. Poland further said that witnesses would be produced to prove that Cunningham had for several days previous to the explosion been seen entering in and around the Tower of London. He then produced a plan of the Tower and pointed out the spot where the explosion took place, at the same time going into details of the damages done to the building and the injuries sustained by persons wounded by the explosion.

FURTHER EVIDENCE.

He also produced a small detonator found in the prisoner's baggage, and said it was similar to those used in the previous dynamite outrages, remarking that the prisoner might have been connected with these crimes. In conclusion Mr. Poland asked that Cunningham be arraigned under the explosive act, on a charge of conspiracy, and said he might possibly at a later day request that the charge be changed to high treason, so that the penalty of death might be meted out to him, as dynamite outrages could be construed as acts of war or rebellion upon the part of the Government.

CAUSED A RESIGNATION.

Poland's notification to the court that the Government reserved the privilege of changing the charge against Cunningham to high treason, so that the result of a conviction might be execution instead of imprisonment, caused a commotion among the spectators. The declaration is construed into an admission that the crown has admitted that in Cunningham they had the most important witness yet arrested for the dynamite crimes. This impression was confirmed by the extraordinary precautions taken to prevent his escape or rescue. He was conveyed from his cell at Clerkenwell prison to the Bow street court in a strong van. Cunningham was the only prisoner, but locked in with him were several armed constables. On each side of the driver was an armed policeman, and officers with exposed revolvers stood guard upon the prisoner's van.

CONTINUING HIS OPENING ADDRESS, the solicitor for the Treasury said that Cunningham was 32 years of age; by occupation he was a dock laborer, and that he was not alone in the work of causing the explosion at the Tower, but was in league with others whom the Government hoped soon to have in custody. The prisoner lived in England last November and took quarters at Liverpool in a small hotel. When he left that place he came direct to London. The solicitor stated that it could be proven that the prisoner on the 23d or 24th of December last was at the Broad street railway station with a large brown trunk. This trunk was of American origin, and was found in the trunk of the prisoner had a bag. He left both at the station on night. The next day he called and took away. In the meantime he secured lodgings at Whitechapel. Tullier prisoner had his brown trunk and baggage. While the prisoner was residing there, the brown trunk mysteriously disappeared. Some time after its disappearance, Cunningham changed his lodgings and took a room in Scarborough street. It would be shown that the prisoner began loitering at the Tower after his removal from Whitechapel, and that he passed in and visited the Tower buildings a few days before the explosion, at least once.

CUNNINGHAM IDENTIFIED.

Few persons were admitted to Bow street police court during the examination of Cunningham. A number of witnesses assembled in the court for the purpose of identifying the prisoner as the man reported to the police as having been engaged in the dynamite movement. Just before the explosion, Cunningham was placed in a small boat with a woman, the other two being constables, had no difficulty in singling him out as the man of whom they had given information. The cabin who had given the police information about the man, who was a member of a brown trunk of American manufacture from the Broad street station, to the lodgings at No. 31 Prescott street, Whitechapel, and who was present as a witness for the Crown, was unable to identify Cunningham as the person who engaged the carriage and occupied it during the transfer of luggage from the station to the boarding-house. At the request of the prosecution Cunningham was retained for a week.

THE DOMINION.

GUARDING AGAINST DYNAMITE. MONTREAL, February 2.—The Grand Trunk Road, since the dynamite scare, has adopted all precautionary measures to guard the Victoria bridge. A company being formed, with a capital of $200,000, to construct a railway round the mountain.

RESERATION IN A CHURCH.

TORONTO, February 2.—Rev. D. J. Macdonnell, during service in St. Andrew's Church yesterday morning, created a sensation by alluding to the battle of the Marston, and the burning of the tower. Before the singing of the second verse, Mr. Macdonnell asked the congregation to use the words "devilish bricks" instead of "marble bricks" to express contempt for the misguided men who were guilty of such a deed.

A Village In Ashes.

STRAUS, N. Y., February 2.—A part of the business district of the village of Geddes, adjoining the city of Syracuse, was burned this morning. Loss about $10,000.

ON MARCH SECOND.

President-Elect Cleveland Will Be in Washington.

Col. Lamont Engages Quarters at the Arlington—Mrs. Laura DeForest Gordon Admitted to the Supreme Court Bar—The Pacific Railroad Bill.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 2.—No decision of importance was rendered by the Supreme Court of the United States today.

A FLOOD OF BILLS.

Brief and Uninteresting Session of the Missouri Legislature.

Important Legislation Regarding the Practice of Law—The Governor, State Officers and the General Assembly Invited to New Orleans—Supreme Court Decisions.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

ON MARCH SECOND.

President-Elect Cleveland Will Be in Washington.

Col. Lamont Engages Quarters at the Arlington—Mrs. Laura DeForest Gordon Admitted to the Supreme Court Bar—The Pacific Railroad Bill.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 2.—No decision of importance was rendered by the Supreme Court of the United States today.

A FLOOD OF BILLS.

Brief and Uninteresting Session of the Missouri Legislature.

Important Legislation Regarding the Practice of Law—The Governor, State Officers and the General Assembly Invited to New Orleans—Supreme Court Decisions.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—The session of the House this morning was short and uneventful. The usual flow of petitions from all over the State, asking that the evil effects of alcohol be taught in the public schools and that the sale of liquor be prohibited, was taken up and discussed at length. No debate action was taken, and the bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo

Will be made at the same BARGAIN PRICES that have been prevailing in their Great Stock-Taking Sale s

This image shows a vertical strip of a document page. On the left side, there is a dark, textured binding edge. To the right of the binding, there is a light gray, textured surface, possibly a cover or endpaper. The overall appearance is that of a scanned document edge.

A close-up photograph of a dark, textured surface, possibly a book cover or endpaper. The image shows a vertical crease or fold line running down the center. The texture is rough and uneven, with some lighter and darker patches. There are some small, light-colored spots and fibers visible on the surface. The lighting is somewhat uneven, with the left side appearing slightly brighter than the right.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and small dark spots, possibly due to age or handling. A vertical crease is visible near the left edge, suggesting it was once folded. The overall tone is a warm, off-white or light beige.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor creases and discoloration, characteristic of old paper. The left edge of the page is bound, and the overall tone is a warm, off-white or light beige.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and small dark spots, possibly due to age or handling. A vertical crease is visible on the left side, suggesting it was once part of a bound volume. The page is set against a dark background.

A blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and small dark spots, possibly foxing or dust. A vertical crease is visible on the left side, suggesting it was once part of a bound volume. The lighting is even, highlighting the subtle variations in the paper's tone.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and small dark spots, possibly due to age or handling. A vertical crease is visible near the right edge, suggesting it was once folded. The overall tone is a warm, off-white or light beige.

